

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

Stop bothering me with your

URBAN SPAM

You've just tried to engage me with some brand promotion, street team or guerrilla media thing. It was not amusing, useful or persuasive. It was probably a waste of your money but it was certainly a waste of my time.

I appreciate your need to sell your product, make a living and keep the wheels of the economy turning but I suspect annoying random strangers is not the way to go.

Can I suggest that you either stop doing it or find some way to make it interesting, helpful or in some way of value to the human race?

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT ENGAGED

I'M NOT
ENGAGED